

Die Gedanken Sind Frei

A Song of Morning

Hoffmann von Fallersleben et. al.

Translated by Daniel Speyer

Oh my think-ing is free. No one can it har - ness. My log - ic soars Yes I think as I choose and by my de - si - re. The world may grow Ev - en if I am cast in - to deep - est dun - geon. It will help them So I bid a fare - well to sor - row for - ev - er. So pet - ty mise - high, like ow - ls in dark - ness. No spy can dis - play it; no still; my int' - rest seeks high - er. My val - ues im - pli - cit: no naught; no game have they won then. If ram - part and tow - er face ry will trou - ble me nev - er. Ro - man - ces and deep truths, la - hunt - er can slay it; With Glock nor U - zi. Oh, my thoughts they are free!

one can in - hi - bit. As 'twill al - ways be. Oh, my thoughts they are free!
think - ing's own pow - er, They'll soon cease to be. Oh, my thoughts they are free!
zy puns and neat proofs. Stay al - ways in me. Oh, my thoughts they are free!